About these documents

These documents are generated from reStructuredText sources by Sphinx, a document processor specifically written for the Python documentation.

In the online version of these documents, you can submit comments and suggest changes directly on the documentation pages.

Development of the documentation and its toolchain takes place on the docs@python.org mailing list. We're always looking for volunteers wanting to help with the docs, so feel free to send a mail there!

See reporting-bugs for information how to report bugs in Python itself.
