[For PyIE Organisers] Getting funding and sponsorship

Here are associations to contact about funding.

Corporate sponsorship

Python Ireland
  • Venue
  • Food / Drinks (optional)
  • Cash
[TODO] More info needed here

[QUESTION] Do we list our past sponsors? python.ie use to have a list of companies that sponsored Python/PyCon Ireland, an issue has been logged.

PSF Funding

There are three ways to get funding:
  • Sprint funding - http://pythonsprints.com/
  • Outreach and education funding (e.g. intro workshop, diversity workshops) - http://mail.python.org/mailman/listinfo/outreach-and-education
  • Other grants, through the main grants program - http://www.python.org/psf/grants/
[For non-PyIE Organisers] Requests for funding

Currently we don’t have any process in place for funding Python-related events that are not organised by Python Ireland organisers.

If you want to enquire about possible options, please email contact@python.ie.
Code of Conduct

The code of conduct is modified version of https://github.com/python/pycon-code-of-conduct and will be used for all Python Ireland events.

Python Ireland Developers Limited (Python Ireland) is a community organisation intended for networking and collaboration in the developer community.

We value the participation of each member of the Python community and want all attendees to have an enjoyable and fulfilling experience. Accordingly, all attendees are expected to show respect and courtesy to other attendees throughout Python Ireland events, whether officially sponsored by Python Ireland or not.

To make clear what is expected, all delegates/attendees, speakers, exhibitors, organisers and volunteers at any Python Ireland event are required to conform to the following Code of Conduct. Organisers will enforce this code throughout the event.

The Short Version

Python Ireland is dedicated to providing a harassment-free experience for everyone, regardless of gender, sexual orientation, disability, physical appearance, body size, race, or religion. We do not tolerate harassment of participants in any form.

All communication should be appropriate for a professional audience including people of many different backgrounds. Sexual language and imagery is not appropriate for any events venue, including talks.

Be kind to others. Do not insult or put down other attendees. Behave professionally. Remember that harassment and sexist, racist, or exclusionary jokes are not appropriate for PyCon Ireland.

Attendees violating these rules may be asked to leave the event without a refund (if any) at the sole discretion of the event organisers.

Thank you for helping make this a welcoming, friendly event for all.
The Long Version

Harassment includes offensive verbal comments related to gender, sexual orientation, disability, physical appearance, body size, race, religion, sexual images in public spaces, deliberate intimidation, stalking, following, harassing photography or recording, sustained disruption of talks or other events, inappropriate physical contact, and unwelcome sexual attention.

Participants asked to stop any harassing behavior are expected to comply immediately.

Exhibitors in the expo hall, sponsor or vendor booths, or similar activities are also subject to the anti-harassment policy. In particular, exhibitors should not use sexualized images, activities, or other material. Booth staff (including volunteers) should not use sexualized clothing/uniforms/costumes, or otherwise create a sexualized environment.

Be careful in the words that you choose. Remember that sexist, racist, and other exclusionary jokes can be offensive to those around you. Excessive swearing and offensive jokes are not appropriate for Python Ireland.

If a participant engages in behavior that violates this code of conduct, the event organisers may take any action they deem appropriate, including warning the offender or expulsion from the event with no refund (if any).

Contact Information

If you are being harassed, notice that someone else is being harassed, or have any other concerns, please contact a member of Python Ireland. You may also contact venue staff and ask to be put in touch with the organiser of the event.

If the matter is especially urgent, please call/contact any of these individuals:

- Diarmuid Bourke - +353 (0)87 74 25 118
- Vicky Twomey-Lee - +353 86 150 2003

Python Ireland staff will be happy to help participants contact venue security or local law enforcement, provide escorts, or otherwise assist those experiencing harassment to feel safe for the duration of the event. We value your attendance.

Handling Harassment

Attendee Procedure for incident handling

This procedure has been adopted from the Ada Initiative’s guide titled “Conference anti-harassment/Responding to Reports”.

1. Staff will also be prepared to handle the incident. All of our staff are informed of the code of conduct policy and guide for handling harassment at the events.

2. Report the harassment incident (preferably in writing) to a events staff member. All reports are confidential. Please do not disclose public information about the incident until the staff have had sufficient time in which to address the situation. This is as much for your safety and protection as it is the other attendees.
When reporting the event to staff, try to gather as much information as available but do not interview people about the incident. Staff will assist you in writing the report/collecting information.

The important information consists of:

- Identifying information (name/badge number) of the participant doing the harassing
- The approximate time of the behavior (if different than the time the report was made)
- The circumstances surrounding the incident
- Other people involved in the incident

The staff is well informed on how to deal with the incident and how to further proceed with the situation.

3. If everyone is presently physically safe, involve law enforcement or security only at a victim’s request. If you do feel your safety in jeopardy please do not hesitate to contact local law enforcement by dialing 112. If you do not have a cell phone, you can use any hotel phone or simply ask a staff member.

- A listing of Python Ireland (TODO) staff is located here, including contact phone numbers.

Staff Procedure for incident handling

This procedure has been adopted from the Ada Initiative’s guide titled “Conference anti-harassment/Responding to Reports”.

Try to get as much of the incident in written form by the reporter. If you cannot, transcribe it yourself as it was told to you. The important information to gather include the following:

- Identifying information (name/badge number) of the participant doing the harassing
- The behavior that was in violation
- The approximate time of the behavior (if different than the time the report was made)
- The circumstances surrounding the incident
- Other people involved in the incident

Prepare an initial response to the incident. This initial response is very important and will set the tone for PyCon. Depending on the severity/details of the incident, please follow these guidelines:

- If there is any general threat to attendees or the safety of anyone including conference staff is in doubt, summon security or Gardaí
- Offer the victim a private place to sit
- Ask “is there a friend or trusted person who you would like to be with you?” (if so, arrange for someone to fetch this person)
- Ask them “how can I help?”
- Provide them with your list of emergency contacts if they need help later
- If everyone is presently physically safe, involve law enforcement or security only at a victim’s request

There are also some guidelines as to what not to do as an initial response:

- Do not overtly invite them to withdraw the complaint or mention that withdrawal is OK. This suggests that you want them to do so, and is therefore coercive. “If you’re OK with it [pursuing the complaint]” suggests that you are by default pursuing it and is not coercive.
- Do not ask for their advice on how to deal with the complaint. This is a staff responsibility.
- Do not offer them input into penalties. This is the staff’s responsibility.
Once something is reported to a staff member, immediately meet with the conference chair and/or event coordinator. The main objectives of this meeting is to find out the following:

- What happened?
- Are we doing anything about it?
- Who is doing those things?
- When are they doing them?

After the staff meeting and discussion, have a staff member (preferably the conference chair or event coordinator if available) communicate with the alleged harasser. Make sure to inform them of what has been reported about them.

Allow the alleged harasser to give their side of the story to the staff. After this point, if the report stands, let the alleged harasser know what actions will be taken against them.

Some things for the staff to consider when dealing with Code of Conduct offenders:

- Warning the harasser to cease their behavior and that any further reports will result in sanctions
- Requiring that the harasser avoid any interaction with, and physical proximity to, their victim for the remainder of the event
- Ending a talk that violates the policy early
- Not publishing the video or slides of a talk that violated the policy
- Not allowing a speaker who violated the policy to give (further) talks at the event now or in the future
- Immediately ending any event volunteer responsibilities and privileges the harasser holds
- Requiring that the harasser not volunteer for future events your organization runs (either indefinitely or for a certain time period)
- Requiring that the harasser refund any travel grants and similar they received (this would need to be a condition of the grant at the time of being awarded)
- Requiring that the harasser immediately leave the event and not return
- Banning the harasser from future events (either indefinitely or for a certain time period)
- Removing a harasser from membership of relevant organizations
- Publishing an account of the harassment and calling for the resignation of the harasser from their responsibilities (usually pursued by people without formal authority: may be called for if the harasser is the event leader, or refuses to stand aside from the conflict of interest, or similar, typically event staff have sufficient governing rights over their space that this isn’t as useful)

Give accused attendees a place to appeal to if there is one, but in the meantime the report stands. Keep in mind that it is not a good idea to encourage an apology from the harasser.

It is very important how we deal with the incident publicly. Our policy is to make sure that everyone aware of the initial incident is also made aware that it is not according to policy and that official action has been taken - while still respecting the privacy of individual attendees. When speaking to individuals (those who are aware of the incident, but were not involved with the incident) about the incident it is a good idea to keep the details out.

Depending on the incident, the conference chair, or designate, may decide to make one or more public announcements. If necessary, this will be done with a short announcement either during the plenary and/or through other channels. No one other than the conference chair or someone delegated authority from the conference chair should make any announcements. No personal information about either party will be disclosed as part of this process.

If some attendees were angered by the incident, it is best to apologize to them that the incident occurred to begin with. If there are residual hard feelings, suggest to them to write an email to the conference chair or to the event coordinator. It will be dealt with accordingly.

PyCon Ireland is an annual Irish Python conference.

The first one was held in 2010 after an enthusiastic drunken (and one undrunken) decision to host one to see if we can, and in the hopes that we will host EuroPython in the near future. So that fateful night in February 2010 in Neary’s, we (Mick, Alan, Kevin, Brian and myself)* said we would do it as soon as possible, in July that year. So from scratch, we pulled sponsors, venues and the conference came together with a resound success and we haven’t looked back since.

(* I think that was everyone, please update if my memory was wrong. - Vicky)

Choosing a date

Our first conference was held in July but we realised that people are away on holidays and clashing with PyCon UK and EuroPython didn’t quite work out for us at the time.

PyCon Ireland’s (second and third) has been held on the second weekend of October because:-

- Avoid clashing with GAA finals at the end of September which can sometimes bleed into early October.
- Try to avoid Octocon which has its own con on either second or third weekend of October.
- Avoid Gaelcon - Ireland’s largest gaming convention on October Bank Holiday Weekend.

Things to note when picking dates:

- Not clashing with other PyCons, check PyCon Events Calendar
- Not clashing with local geek events (check EventBrite, Lanyrd, Eventsden, techevents.ie, etc.)¹
- July - Summer vacation for many, and students are off college. This is also peak period for travelling and accommodation.
- September to early November are conference months. Late November and December will be going into Christmas party period.

PyConIE Content

History

Following was the formats we chose for the conference content. We are still re-working how best structure the conference so it will suit everyone, and what works and what doesn’t.

2010

- Saturday
  - Talks x2
  - Workshops
  - Breakfast / x1 Coffee Break / Lunch / x1 Coffee Break / Dinner

¹ Update this list of you find other places to find out when local, especially tech, events are on.
- Sunday
  - Sprints / OpenSpaces

2011
- Saturday
  - Talks x2
  - Beginners Workshops x1
  - Breakfast / x1 Coffee Break / Lunch / x1 Coffee Break / Dinner
- Sunday
  - Workshops/Tutorials
  - Sprints / OpenSpaces

2012
- Saturday
  - Talks x3
  - Beginners Workshops / Tutorials x1
  - Sprints / OpenSpaces x1
  - Breakfast / x1 Coffee Break / Lunch / x1 Coffee Break / Dinner
- Sunday
  - Talks x3
  - Workshops x1
  - Sprints / OpenSpaces x1
  - Lunch

Lessons Learnt
- We will not have a sprint-dedicated room anymore, people are happy enough to find somewhere and tap away on their laptop. Openspaces will also not be needed, the gathering of people in the lobby areas are enough (as long as there are seatings around).
- Beginners Track is pretty popular.
  - “Learning Python the Hard Way” is great for getting people working together and even have seasoned Pythonistas joining in to assist.
- Have 2 breaks during the day as well as breakfast and lunch.
  - 1 hour break for lunch was a success in 2012. Feedback was positive regarding time to mingle and not having to rush food and head to next set of talks.
- Depending on venues, it seems that maximum 5 sponsor tables is enough else people feel it’s just a recruitment fair. We are trying to provide an informal and friendly event.
- We have had entertainment between 2010 and 2012, this is optional. It will also depend on the venue.
Sponsorship

It is important to have at least a few committee members following up with companies to see if they are interested in sponsoring the conference, especially important is the following up. It is up to the individual on how many times they contact the companies though. :-)

Shout-outs via tweets (RT/MT), FB, LinkedIn, Lanyard and via our own python.ie site are the initial steps to get general interests. We do have contacts with previous sponsors, so a personal individual email to initialise the process is also advised.

Brochure

Initial brochure were based on PyCon US, PyCon UK and EuroPython sponsorship brochures.

Current:- PyCon Ireland 2012 Brochure

Previous brochures

- PyCon Ireland 2013 Brochure

The brochure currently is maintained by Vicky Twomey-Lee, and is created using Pages. The Sponsorship Brochure is re-visited early every year to update and re-balance the various sponsorship options which depends on how the previous conference went.

Sponsors

Previous PyCon Ireland sponsors, see http://python.ie/companies/.

- There’s a spreadsheet with sponsors contacts, the organisers will have access to that doc.
  - Add any new (potential) sponsor contacts with as much detail as you can give.
  - Update existing sponsor details.
  - Any questions, email sponsors@python.ie

Swag

Swag are goodies provided from various companies (not necessarily sponsors) that are placed in delegates swag bag, they normally consists of:-

- Company inserts / fliers
- T-shirts
- Vouchers
- Mugs (2012)
- PyCon Ireland t-shirt
- PyCon Ireland conference programme
- Pens
- Magazines
- ...

\[^1\] Ask Vicky (whykay@python.ie).
Prizes

Prizes are normally for a raffle during the meal on the main conference day, which is currently Saturday. The first two years we donated the proceeds to PSF after selling raffle tickets. In 2012, we opted that everyone who registered (excluding the organisers) will be included in the raffle automatically and names are randomly picked (idea was thanks to EuroPython 2012). We didn’t collect monies, so there was no charity donation in 2012.

There are two ways to request for prizes:

- Ask a company directly for prizes.
- When speaking with a sponsor, they might include prizes.

NOTE: Details of companies who sponsored us prizes will be in the sponsors doc as well.

Venues

Ask for a quote, and also a viewing of the venue. Email the committee about the price and when to view the venue.

What to look for in a potential venue?

- Can accommodate 250 (max) in one room.
- 3 large halls that can hold up to 50-80 people each.
- 1 large hall that can host a plenary session
  - Preferably no joining of existing halls as re-organising the rooms for setting up for plenary session or individual rooms for each track takes considerable amount of time.

- Allows outside catering.
- Allows us to being in our own entertainment (optional).
- Good wireless for a tech conference. Radisson Blu held up quite well.

Venues we used in the past

- 2010: Dublin School of English / Capacity: 100
  - Boticelli was the hired caterers for tea/coffee, breakfast and lunch.
- 2011: Radisson Blu Royal Hotel / Capacity: 180
  - Hotel provided food, no outside caterers allowed.
- 2012: Radisson Blu Royal Hotel / Capacity: 200
  - Hotel provided food, no outside caterers allowed.
Venues we enquired in the past

- Dublin Conference Centre (really expensive, no outside catering, but has all the tech requirements)
- Camden Court Hotel
  - Reasonable, the lobby area is a bit awkward though. The hall size is fine, but need to be split up for rooms and put back together, so not ideal.
  - [TODO] More details and link to 2012 prices.
- Ballsbridge Hotel
  - A bit further out, big halls but smaller rooms might be a problem for workshops.
  - [TODO] More details and link to 2012 prices.
- [TODO] Add more venues

Diversity in PyCon Ireland

(See also: Diversity in Python Ireland)

We want to initially encourage more

- students
- women

to attend/speak/sprint PyCon Ireland.

Code of Conduct
PyCon Ireland is a community conference intended for networking and collaboration in the developer community.

We value the participation of each member of the Python community and want all attendees to have an enjoyable and fulfilling experience. Accordingly, all attendees are expected to show respect and courtesy to other attendees throughout the conference and at all conference events, whether officially sponsored by PyCon Ireland or not.

To make clear what is expected, all delegates/attendees, speakers, exhibitors, organisers and volunteers at any PyCon Ireland event are required to conform to the following Code of Conduct. Organisers will enforce this code throughout the event.

The Short Version

PyCon Ireland is dedicated to providing a harassment-free conference experience for everyone, regardless of gender, sexual orientation, disability, physical appearance, body size, race, or religion. We do not tolerate harassment of conference participants in any form.

All communication should be appropriate for a professional audience including people of many different backgrounds. Sexual language and imagery is not appropriate for any conference venue, including talks.

Be kind to others. Do not insult or put down other attendees. Behave professionally. Remember that harassment and sexist, racist, or exclusionary jokes are not appropriate for PyCon Ireland.

Attendees violating these rules may be asked to leave the conference without a refund at the sole discretion of the conference organisers.

Thank you for helping make this a welcoming, friendly event for all.

The Long Version

Harassment includes offensive verbal comments related to gender, sexual orientation, disability, physical appearance, body size, race, religion, sexual images in public spaces, deliberate intimidation, stalking, following, harassing photography or recording, sustained disruption of talks or other events, inappropriate physical contact, and unwelcome sexual attention.

Participants asked to stop any harassing behavior are expected to comply immediately.

Exhibitors in the expo hall, sponsor or vendor booths, or similar activities are also subject to the anti-harassment policy. In particular, exhibitors should not use sexualized images, activities, or other material. Booth staff (including volunteers) should not use sexualized clothing/uniforms/costumes, or otherwise create a sexualized environment.

Be careful in the words that you choose. Remember that sexist, racist, and other exclusionary jokes can be offensive to those around you. Excessive swearing and offensive jokes are not appropriate for PyCon Ireland.

If a participant engages in behavior that violates this code of conduct, the conference organisers may take any action they deem appropriate, including warning the offender or expulsion from the conference with no refund.

Contact Information If you are being harassed, notice that someone else is being harassed, or have any other concerns, please contact a member of conference staff. Conference staff will be wearing “PyCon Ireland Staff” t-shirts. You may also contact hotel staff and ask to be put in touch with the conference chair — Diarmuid Bourke and/or co-Chair — Vicky Twomey-Lee.

If the matter is especially urgent, please call/contact any of these individuals:

Vicky Twomey-Lee at +353 86 150 2003 Conference staff will be happy to help participants contact hotel/venue security or local law enforcement, provide escorts, or otherwise assist those experiencing harassment to feel safe for the duration of the conference. We value your attendance.

Handling Harassment

Attendee Procedure for incident handling

This procedure has been adopted from the Ada Initiative’s guide titled “Conference anti-harassment/Responding to Reports”.

1. Keep in mind that all conference staff will be wearing a conference t-shirt/button with the word “STAFF” on it (or otherwise clearly marked as staff). The staff will also be prepared to handle the incident. Staff will also be prepared to handle the incident. All of our staff are informed of the code of conduct policy and guide for handling harassment at the events.

   NOTE: There will be a mandatory staff meeting onsite at the conference when this will be reiterated.

2. Report the harassment incident (preferably in writing) to a events staff member. All reports are confidential. Please do not disclose public information about the incident until the staff have had sufficient time in which to address the situation. This is as much for your safety and protection as it is the other attendees.

   When reporting the event to staff, try to gather as much information as available but do not interview people about the incident. Staff will assist you in writing the report/collecting information.

   The important information consists of:

   • Identifying information (name/badge number) of the participant doing the harassing
   • The approximate time of the behavior (if different than the time the report was made)
   • The circumstances surrounding the incident
   • Other people involved in the incident

   The staff is well informed on how to deal with the incident and how to further proceed with the situation.

3. If everyone is presently physically safe, involve law enforcement or security only at a victim’s request. If you do feel your safety in jeopardy please do not hesitate to contact local law enforcement by dialing 112. If you do not have a cell phone, you can use any hotel phone or simply ask a staff member.

   • A listing of PyCon Ireland staff is located here, including contact phone numbers. [TODO]

Staff Procedure for incident handling

This procedure has been adopted from the Ada Initiative’s guide titled “Conference anti-harassment/Responding to Reports”.

Try to get as much of the incident in written form by the reporter. If you cannot, transcribe it yourself as it was told to you. The important information to gather include the following:

• Identifying information (name/badge number) of the participant doing the harassing
• The behavior that was in violation
• The approximate time of the behavior (if different than the time the report was made)
• The circumstances surrounding the incident
• Other people involved in the incident

Prepare an initial response to the incident. This initial response is very important and will set the tone for PyCon. Depending on the severity/details of the incident, please follow these guidelines:
• If there is any general threat to attendees or the safety of anyone including conference staff is in doubt, summon security or Gardaí
• Offer the victim a private place to sit
• Ask “is there a friend or trusted person who you would like to be with you?” (if so, arrange for someone to fetch this person)
• Ask them “how can I help?”
• Provide them with your list of emergency contacts if they need help later
• If everyone is presently physically safe, involve law enforcement or security only at a victim’s request

There are also some guidelines as to what not to do as an initial response:
• Do not overtly invite them to withdraw the complaint or mention that withdrawal is OK. This suggests that you want them to do so, and is therefore coercive. “If you’re OK with it [pursuing the complaint]” suggests that you are by default pursuing it and is not coercive.
• Do not ask for their advice on how to deal with the complaint. This is a staff responsibility.
• Do not offer them input into penalties. This is the staff’s responsibility.

Once something is reported to a staff member, immediately meet with the conference chair and/or event coordinator. The main objectives of this meeting is to find out the following:
• What happened?
• Are we doing anything about it?
• Who is doing those things?
• When are they doing them?

After the staff meeting and discussion, have a staff member (preferably the conference chair or event coordinator if available) communicate with the alleged harasser. Make sure to inform them of what has been reported about them.

Allow the alleged harasser to give their side of the story to the staff. After this point, if the report stands, let the alleged harasser know what actions will be taken against them.

Some things for the staff to consider when dealing with Code of Conduct offenders:
• Warning the harasser to cease their behavior and that any further reports will result in sanctions
• Requiring that the harasser avoid any interaction with, and physical proximity to, their victim for the remainder of the event
• Ending a talk that violates the policy early
• Not publishing the video or slides of a talk that violated the policy
• Not allowing a speaker who violated the policy to give (further) talks at the event now or in the future
• Immediately ending any event volunteer responsibilities and privileges the harasser holds
• Requiring that the harasser not volunteer for future events your organization runs (either indefinitely or for a certain time period)
• Requiring that the harasser refund any travel grants and similar they received (this would need to be a condition of the grant at the time of being awarded)
• Requiring that the harasser immediately leave the event and not return
• Banning the harasser from future events (either indefinitely or for a certain time period)
• Removing a harasser from membership of relevant organizations
• Publishing an account of the harassment and calling for the resignation of the harasser from their responsibilities (usually pursued by people without formal authority: may be called for if the harasser is the event leader, or refuses to stand aside from the conflict of interest, or similar, typically event staff have sufficient governing rights over their space that this isn’t as useful)

Give accused attendees a place to appeal to if there is one, but in the meantime the report stands. Keep in mind that it is not a good idea to encourage an apology from the harasser.

It is very important how we deal with the incident publicly. Our policy is to make sure that everyone aware of the initial incident is also made aware that it is not according to policy and that official action has been taken - while still respecting the privacy of individual attendees. When speaking to individuals (those who are aware of the incident, but were not involved with the incident) about the incident it is a good idea to keep the details out.

Depending on the incident, the conference chair, or designate, may decide to make one or more public announcements. If necessary, this will be done with a short announcement either during the plenary and/or through other channels. No one other than the conference chair or someone delegated authority from the conference chair should make any announcements. No personal information about either party will be disclosed as part of this process.

If some attendees were angered by the incident, it is best to apologize to them that the incident occurred to begin with. If there are residual hard feelings, suggest to them to write an email to the conference chair or to the event coordinator. It will be dealt with accordingly.
